Numerous residential and commercial property owners rely upon NSDC Preferred Contractor status when choosing their contractor to ensure quality and operational excellence. Through information, advocacy, and mediation, the NSDC is an independent third party that strives to streamline the process for homeowners, contractors, and insurance agencies.

The NSDC is known for its revolutionary forensic technology that detects the precise path, power and location of a storm in real time, whether it involves a tornado, hurricane, flash floods or a fierce baseball-size hailstorm. Their proven weather technology is geared to help property owners in a time of crisis and eliminate “storm chasers” taking advantage of consumers. NSDC technology is trusted by many government entities and countries internationally. Taking their approval and certification process a step further, the NSDC recently signed an agreement with Global Risk Management Solutions (GRMS), the renowned leader in providing vendor screening solutions. According to the NSDC, they only certify the best and most experienced certified and licensed contractors, and their recent partnership with GRMS provides an added layer to vet storm restoration contractors and companies.
