Venture Construction Group of Florida educates the community with storm damage preparedness tips

Local construction and restoration company equips businesses, property owners with knowledge to protect their properties

Stuart, Fla.– Venture Construction Group of Florida holds a Hurricane & Storm Damage Preparedness seminar on August 4, 2015 from 4 – 7:30 p.m. at the Hutchinson Island Marriot Beach Resort & Marina located at 555 NE Ocean Blvd, Stuart, Florida. The educational event is open to homeowners, businesses, commercial property owners, property management companies, real estate agents, and community members. The seminar will feature speakers from nationally recognized property and storm damage repair companies from 4 - 6 p.m., networking mixer from 6 - 7:30 p.m., raffles, prize giveaways, and refreshments. RSVP is required. Please call 866-459-8351 to reserve your space.

The Hurricane & Storm Damage Preparedness seminar includes expert speakers in construction, real estate, law, insurance restoration and storm damage repairs. Topics include hurricane and storm damage preparedness; how to obtain an accurate assessment for hail, water, wind damage; community tips on obtaining an accurate inspection from certified professionals. The speaker lineup kicks off with Joe Radcliff, CEO of the National Insurance Restoration Council, a non-profit organization devoted to protecting and educating property owners and restoration contractors. Radcliff, a Florida native, will discuss how to protect your property before, during, and after a storm. Radcliff will review hurricane season predictions in Florida, hurricane preparedness, how to choose a qualified and vetted construction and restoration company. Michael Duffy, partner at the Childress Duffy Law Firm, will discuss how to obtain proper insurance policies and protection for your home or commercial property. Steve Shanton, CEO of Venture Construction Group of Florida will discuss storm damage repairs, assessments, and preparedness, particularly for property owners who were hit by the April hail storm in Stuart and Martin County.

“We have worked extensively with property owners throughout Martin, St. Lucie and Indian River Counties, and after the April hailstorm here, there is a real need to help the community rebuild right now, especially being in the middle of hurricane season. Many property owners simply aren’t aware of hail and wind damage,” says Steve Shanton, president and founder of Venture Construction Group of Florida.

The National Insurance Restoration Council (NIRC) is a non-profit organization devoted to protecting and educating property owners and restoration contractors when dealing with insurance claims. Venture Construction Group of Florida has worked extensively with homeowners, commercial businesses, and property management companies throughout Florida for over 15 years.

“Venture Construction Group of Florida is an esteemed member and preferred contractor with the most respected organizations in the industry. They are highly regarded throughout the nation for their expertise, quality workmanship, and commitment to educating and informing the communities they serve,” says Joe Radcliff, CEO of the National Insurance Restoration Council.
